Dogs Chasing My Car in the Desert series

1995-1998

John Divola is known for photographing his hometown of Los Angeles, CA, and the surrounding landscape. Much of his work is published through photo books, such as the Dogs Chasing My Car in the Desert (1995-1998) series. For this photo book, Divola took photos of dogs chasing his car while he was working on a separate series that focused on isolated houses in the desert. He used set exposure when taking these photos, causing some images to show motion blur, such as the one shown here. The running dog suddenly becomes alive in the photo, as movement travels through the image.
