American, b. 1982

Untitled

Matt Dallos is a landscape photographer from central Pennsylvania. This photo was taken with a Canon 5D and printed with an inkjet printer. It was taken about 10 years ago at a food concessions area of a tractor pull event. The photo aims to capture how the people interacted with food stands. There is both a sense of motion through the blurs of people and smoke and a sense of sharpness coming from the man in the middle of the frame and from the food booth signs.
